ADVISORY BOARD PROFILE

Denise Rousseau Ford

I would like to introduce myself, my name is Denise Rousseau Ford and I am the mother of three boys, Christian, Ethan, and Joshua Ford. Our children's academic and religious education is one of my husband, Mark, and my top priorities. I feel that Sacred Heart has produced amazing young people. Having three very different children has made me more aware that as parents and as members of the Sacred Heart community, it's our job to ensure that our children are both challenged and fostered on their journey in becoming successful, caring young adults. I believe that by working together we can help Sacred Heart continue to bring forth amazing young people of which we can all be very proud.

A SACRED HEART MOMENT . . .

“I was helping sell confetti eggs at the Fall Fest on Friday. Two young girls walked up to buy eggs. I told them that the eggs were bought with ticketed arm bands, two eggs for 1 tab or four eggs for 2 tabs. Both girls had all-inclusive arm bands, but only one of the girls had a ticketed arm band. She had two orange tabs left. After learning that it would take tabs to buy the eggs they wanted, she immediately offered one of her last two tabs to her friend and they ran off happy with two eggs each. I know that the lesson is elementary, but too often in our world today it is one that is forgotten: sharing goes a long way. It touches me to see these small acts of kindness, especially in the children that share the same school as my own son.”

I've had lots of parents ask me about private music lessons & I would like to recommend the LSU Performing Arts Academy to all parents looking for a private music teacher. Every instrument is offered as well as group music classes and acting/theater classes. I took lessons there for many years myself when I was young and highly recommend this opportunity.
